

Pre-k Choice Board

Listening

Listening

Click here to join Miss Penny and the KidVision Kids on an exciting field trip to Nova Southeastern University's Athletic Center, where they learn how to play basketball. Discover the fun and fundamentals of the sport alongside these enthusiastic young learners.

What new things did you find out about basketball today? I found out about many parts of this fun game!

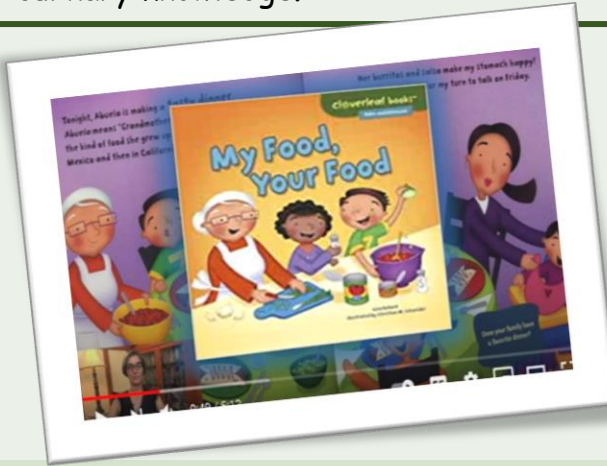

First, I learned what stuff we need to play, like a ball and special shoes. Then, I found out how to play, like dribbling and shooting. Next, I saw how the court looks, with lines and hoops. And last, I learned some rules, like not taking more than two steps with the ball.

Listening

Listening

Click here to read "My Food, Your Food" by Lisa Bullard. During Food Week at Manuel's school, students share unique dishes their families enjoy. Discover any unfamiliar dishes from the story, and research their country of origin to broaden your culinary knowledge.

Did you come across any unfamiliar dishes in the story? The Yi Mei noodle dish, originating from China, was new to me. In the story, the teacher mentioned that her parents moved to the U.S. from China and used chopsticks—an alternative to forks—for eating noodles. This cultural detail showcases the rich diversity found within our communities.

Speaking

Speaking

Click here to watch "100 Kids Tell Their Favorite Word." Listen for any unfamiliar words and write them down. Reflect on your own favorite words, think about why you like them and how they might be similar or different from the words mentioned in the video.

Among the diverse vocabulary by the children, some words that out were "abra-cadabra," "flower," "banana," "bubblegum," and "Nutella." My personal favorite words include "sunrise," "open sesame," "chrysanthemum," "peony," "rainbow," "heart," and "Snickerdoodle."

Speaking

Speaking

Click here to join Murray from Sesame Street in a game of "Name That Emotion." Challenge yourself to identify as many emotions as possible, expanding your emotional vocabulary and understanding of various feelings.

"I successfully identified all emotions portrayed in the video. chicken interviewed by Murray expressed immense happiness, especially after laying an egg, and couldn't stop smiling. On the other hand, the tiger felt sad due to dropping his ice cream cone, a sad incident that would disappoint anyone."