

2020 SECONDARY SUMMER READING LIST

Imagine Your Story...

In St. Louis Public Schools, we provide all students access to high-quality literature that covers a wide range of topics. We use the “windows and mirrors” approach to literature exposure. This means that we want students to read books that reflect their own cultures, personalities, identities, etc. (mirrors) and we also want students to engage with titles that allow them a glimpse into the lives and experiences of others that may not reflect their own realities (windows). We strive to maintain a balance of “windows and mirrors” in our district ELA curriculum, but we also encourage students to engage in personal reading for pleasure that reflects this practice. It is recommended that each student in grades 6-12 select a minimum of six titles from the lists provided for summer reading. Recommendations have been made by grade level based on the reading level and content of the text, but students may choose titles from any list if they desire.

Young Adult literature often contains mature themes and topics that may not be suitable for every student. While we do not censor student reading selections in St. Louis Public Schools (as recommended by the National Council for Teachers of English and the International Literacy Association), we do recommend consulting a source such as Common Sense Media if you are concerned about the content presented in a particular title. All of the titles contained in this Summer Reading List were recommended by SLPS ELA/English teachers and have also been endorsed by a number of reputable literacy organizations around the world. Most of these titles are national award winners and are available in ebook, audio book, braille, and large print formats. All titles are available through the St. Louis Public Library.

If you have questions about any titles or would like support materials such as comprehension questions or discussion guides for a particular title, please contact Judine Keplar, ELA Curriculum Specialist by email (judine.keplar@slps.org).
