The first yearbook was created at Yale in 1806. Silhouettes were used instead of photos.

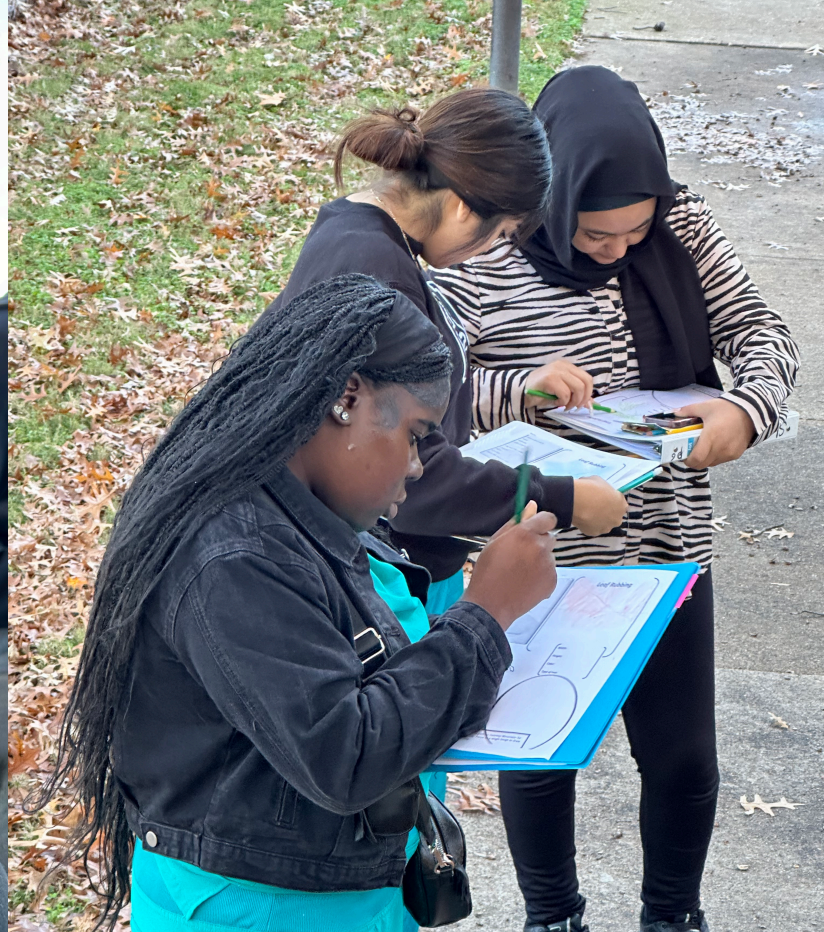

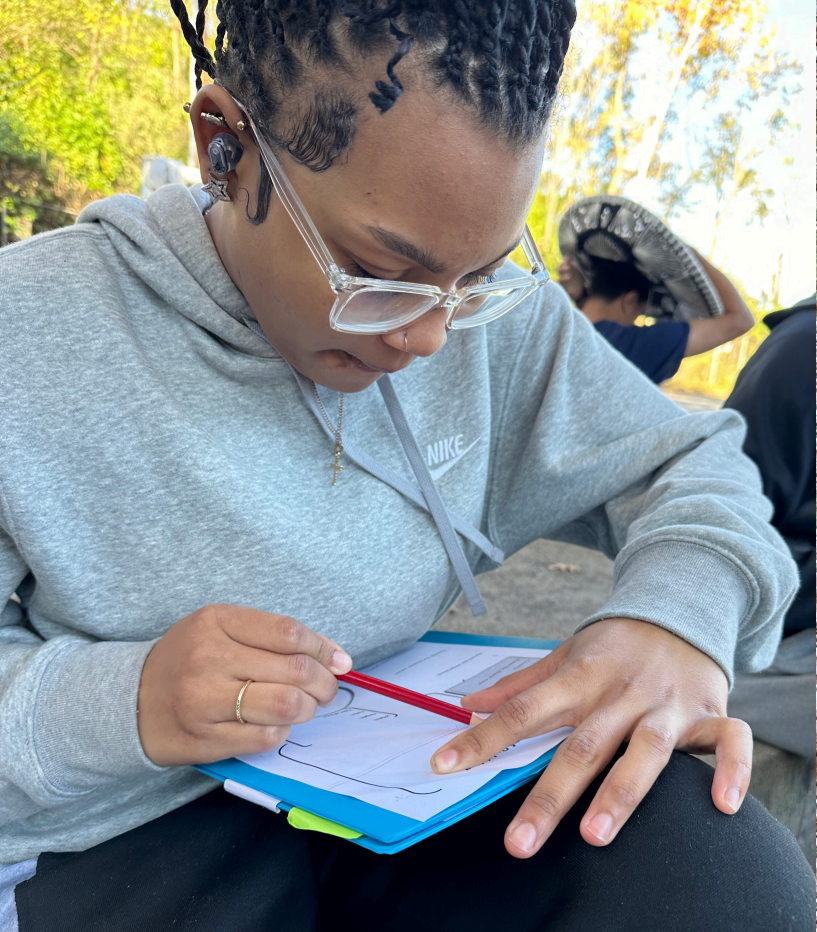

Early yearbooks were more like scrapbooks.

Story and photo by Sharon Ingram.

Holidays are not just about celebration; they're about giving back, building connections, and being involved in the community. An example of this is seeing our Jagettes and cheerleaders come together, demonstrating teamwork and togetherness.

We are also thankful for our supportive principal Dr. Berry and incredible leaders in our community, like Dr. Mack, who share her wisdom and inspire our youth to strive for excellence every day.
